

Agricultural Graduate

At Barenbrug we believe the future of New Zealand's agricultural industry lies in the increased use and efficiency of home grown feed. We have been leaders in this field for over 35 years, originally as 'Agriseeds' but now as Barenbrug, as a trusted supplier of both innovative products, and advice to maximise the on farm value of these products, in a sustainable way.

We also believe the future of New Zealand agriculture depends on good people, which is why we have a big focus on supporting our staff to grow and develop for both their benefit and that of the industry as a whole.

About the role

This is an excellent personal and professional development opportunity for a recent graduate.

It's a full time 18 month position, during which you will work in a range of areas across our business including plant breeding, agronomy, marketing support, seed testing, seed production, and sales. The graduate programme also includes some conference attendance, travel and personal development training. It is a chance to be involved at the forefront of pastoral agriculture, and provides you with the opportunity to grow personally and professionally, in a stimulating environment.

It is based at Barenbrug Head Office and Research Station in Courtenay, 30km west of Christchurch.

About You

You will want to make a positive difference in the New Zealand pastoral industry. You will value the importance of teamwork, and strive to assist other team members as much as you can, along with having a real drive for professional and personal development. The ability to think critically and achieve a high standard in your work is a must for this role.

A positive attitude and personal responsibility are also essential.

Ideal Skills & Experience

- Agricultural related degree
- Motivated to make a difference in the pastoral industry
- High level of integrity
- Team player
